An outcome oriented quality initiative

Yenepoya (Deemed to be University) has been making conscious and concerted efforts to excel in all the core activities. In this direction to achieve the desired goals, the University has evolved various initiatives towards quality improvement. This has been compiled and reflected in the response submitted by the University under the metric 6.5.3. One of the best practices of Yenepoya (Deemed to be University) is its outreach and extension activities.

This institution provides free and highly subsidised treatment to the people of nearby districts and states for their health care needs. Through the outreach and extension activities, the University could reach the unreached to address the health issues and create awareness among the people over the importance of keeping good hygiene, early detection and treatment of various diseases. The institution has won accolades for the yeomen activities in general and particularly for cancer awareness program. In recognition of these accomplishments derived through the quality and outcome oriented outreach/extension activities, the University was able to attract the attention of philanthropists and donors for resource mobilization. In this context, the University has obtained generous support for augmenting the healthcare facilities in NABH accredited hospital from Tata trusts and Kotak group. This support would not have come to the institution without an assessment on the quality of the services provided.

The initiatives of this University in providing extensive quality ingrained outreach and extension activities as well as ensuring quality health care services through NABH accredited teaching hospital has resulted in the establishment of a comprehensive cancer treatment centre through the generous financial support from corporate organisations.
