CENTRE FOR ETHICS, YENEPOYA DEEMED TO BE UNIVERSITY

Report on 11th Intensive Summer Workshop in Ethics and Research (I-SWEAR) – 17 to 21 May 2021

PROGRAM REPORT

Since the country still needs more persons to get trained in bioethics, so that their contribution within the IEC becomes more meaningful. Therefore, CFE as a part of Intensive Summer Workshop in Ethics and Research (I-SWEAR) program offers EC mentoring and GCP training to enable the participants to be trained on basic ethical principles and assure the safety, integrity, and quality of clinical trials by addressing elements related to the design, conduct, and reporting of clinical trials.

The main focus of the workshop was to empower participants to understand locating ethics in research from historical wrongs. To explore areas of research involving human participants. To train people who is serving on institutional human ethics committees; or are likely to serve in the coming years, to give them the knowledge and tools to recognize and deal with various ethical issues arising out of research being done on human subjects. The course also trained participants in Good Clinical Practice (GCP) along guidelines of the International Council for Harmonization (ICH).

Beneficiaries:

- Students of the Post Graduate Diploma in Bioethics and Medical Ethics.
- Students of the Post Graduate Diploma in Clinical Ethics.
- Students of M.Sc Research Ethics Students.
- In-house and external participants from various disciplines: Pharmacology, Paediatrics, Ophthalmology, Advocate, Ayurveda, Hospital Administration, Clinical psychology, Public health dentistry, Oral and maxillofacial surgery, Oral medicine and radiology, ethics committee, Community medicine, Physiology, Pathology, Physiotherapy, Nursing, Independent researcher, Curator, Salesperson, Social science and Humanities

Sessions

Converted 3rd and 4th modules of the Post Graduate Diploma in Bioethics and Medical Ethics into online modules. Following are the sessions conducted during the four days online workshop.

Day 1: What is research?, Ethics of clinical practice and clinical research, Methodology for ethical analysis: principles and theories, Vulnerability of research participants.

Day 2: Voluntary informed consent, Privacy and confidentiality in biomedical research, Assessment of risks and benefits in clinical research, Laws and regulations related to clinical trials, Formation of ethics committees and protocols for mock ethics review.

Day 3: Regulations for SAE and compensation, Practical aspects of scientific and economic organization of clinical trials, Ethics committees: Institutional and Independent, Conflict of Interests, Standard of care, Post trial access, Groups discussion on mock proposal.

Day 4: Scientific misconduct, ICMR COVID research guidelines for ethics committees, Research in disaster, Meeting of mock ethics committee and presentation, Ethical use of animals in research, Community engagement in research.

Training method

1. The workshop was conducted 'online' in view of the COVID-19 pandemic related lockdown and travel restrictions, using Zoom platform.
2. The sessions included interactive lectures using power point presentation and educational short movies with appropriate examples.
3. The session was interspersed with interaction with the participants and clarification of doubts.
4. The participants were divided into three groups and assigned them with the mock proposals. Each group was asked to enact the role of the ethics committee individually and put forth their opinion on the mock proposals received by them.

Resource Faculties

Feedback

- The feedback was good for all the sessions in terms of presentation, clarity, duration, pacing and interaction
- The participants responded that the workshop was beneficial to them to identify as well as evaluate ethical issues in healthcare and research and had improved their knowledge.
- The participants also opined that there was a need for such programs to update them with the changing guidelines
- Since the workshop was online, some of the participants were delighted with the new experience and few others preferred the live interaction.
- Most of the participants expressed that the topics explained in the workshop matched their expectations and the skill obtained will help them design or implement a research project in future

Report on online 10th Intensive Summer Workshop on Ethics and Research (I-SWEAR) 8 – 11 July 2020

PROGRAM REPORT

Since the country still needs more persons to get trained in bioethics, so that their contribution within the IEC becomes more meaningful. Therefore, CFE as a part of Intensive Summer Workshop in Ethics and Research (I-SWEAR) program offers EC mentoring and GCP training to enable the participants to be trained on basic ethical principles and assure the safety, integrity, and quality of clinical trials by addressing elements related to the design, conduct, and reporting of clinical trials.

The main focus of the workshop was to empower participants to understand locating ethics in research from historical wrongs. To explore areas of research involving human participants. To train people who is serving on institutional human ethics committees; or are likely to serve in the coming years, to give them the knowledge and tools to recognize and deal with various ethical issues arising out of research being done on human subjects. The course also trained participants in Good Clinical Practice (GCP) along guidelines of the International Council for Harmonization (ICH).

Beneficiaries :

- Students of the Post Graduate Diploma in Bioethics and Medical Ethics.
- Students of the Post Graduate Diploma in Clinical Ethics.
- Students of M.Sc Research Ethics Students.
- In-house and external participants from various disciplines: Pedodontics, pharmacology, anesthesia, periodontology, ophthalmology, advocate, MSW, Ayurveda, Hospital Administration, public health dentistry, oncology, ethics committee, community medicine, anatomy, principal, microbiologist, oral pathology, oral surgery, physiology, pathologist, physiotherapy, lay person, director, anesthesiologist.

Sessions

Converted 3rd and 4th modules of the Post Graduate Diploma in Bioethics and Medical Ethics into online modules. Following are the sessions conducted during the four days online workshop.

Day 1: What is research?, Ethics of clinical practice and clinical research, Methodology for ethical analysis: principles and theories, Vulnerability of research participants.

Day 2: Voluntary informed consent, Privacy and confidentiality in biomedical research, Assessment of risks and benefits in clinical research, ICMR Guidelines, Transparency and social accountability in clinical research, Formation of ethics committees and protocols for mock ethics review.

Day 3: Laws and regulations related to clinical trials, Regulations for SAE and compensation, Practical aspects of scientific and economic organization of clinical trials, Conflict of Interests, Groups discussion on mock proposal.

Day 4: Scientific misconduct, Ethics committees: Institutional and Independent,

Meeting of mock ethics committee and presentation, Ethical use of animals in research, Community engagement in research.

Training method

1. The workshop was conducted 'online' in view of the COVID-19 pandemic related lockdown and travel restrictions, using Google meet.
2. The sessions included interactive lectures using power point presentation and educational short movies with appropriate examples.
3. The session was interspersed with interaction with the participants and clarification of doubts.

The participants were divided into five groups and assigned them with the mock proposals. Each group was asked to enact the role of the ethics committee individually and put forth their opinion on the mock proposals received by them.

Resource Faculties

Feedback

- The feedback was good for all the sessions in terms of presentation, clarity, duration, pacing and interaction
- The participants responded that the workshop was beneficial to them to conduct a review process of protocols and had improved their knowledge.
- The participants also opined that there was a need for such programs to update them with the changing guidelines
- Since the workshop was online, some of the participants were delighted with the new experience and few others preferred the live interaction.
- Most of the participants expressed that the topics explained in the workshop matched their expectations and the skill obtained will help them function better as ethics committee member or as a researcher.

Report on 7th Intensive Summer Workshop in Ethics and Research (I-SWEAR) May 28th to May 31st, 2018

PROGRAM REPORT

The Centre for Ethics, Yenepoya deemed to be University, Mangalore successfully completed the seventh edition of its annual feature - Intensive Summer Workshop in Ethics and Research (I-SWEAR). Apart from its growing popularity and consistency in the standard of training, the highlight of this year's program was the registration of four participants from across the borders of India -- Nepal -- for the first time. A total of 29 delegates registered and actively participated in the workshop. Of these, 14 were from the medical fraternity, 9 from dental and 6 from others like sociology. Six delegates were members of institutional ethics committees.

On the first day, the Vice Chancellor Dr. M Vijayakumar inaugurated the program. The Registrar - Dr. G Shreekumar Menon, Vice Principal, and Yenepoya Dental College - Dr. Sham Bhat, and the Karnataka Medical Council Observer - Dr. Cynthia Arunachalam also graced the dais.

Dr. Ravi Vaswani introduced the delegates to the distinction between research, healthcare, innovation and experimentation; the differing standards in research and practice were brought out through a case study. Dr. Amar Jesani shed light on the concepts of clinical equipoise and therapeutic misconceptions which are crucial in understanding research ethics. Dr. Uma Kulkarni introduced the delegates to the principles and theories of ethics in research and their application in analysis of ethical issues in research. The afternoon session was focused on understanding the concept of vulnerability in research with the screening of the educational movie "Ms. Ever's Boys" based on the Tuskegee syphilis trial. The ethical issues were discussed by Dr. Amar Jesani and this was followed by a presentation on identifying and managing vulnerability in research by Dr. Uma Kulkarni.

The third day included more advanced topics in research. After the recap, Dr. Arun Bhatt spoke on the regulations governing Serious Adverse Events (SAE) reporting and compensation issues in research. He also spoke on the design and functioning of a clinical trial, the role of Central Drugs Standard Control Organization (CDSCO) and insurance issues. Community engagement in research was discussed by Dr. Abhay Nirgude and Dr. Mala Ramanathan with the help of case vignettes and group discussions. Dr. Ravi Vaswani clarified the concept of conflict of interests (CoI), its identification and mitigation during the conduct of research, in the review processes of the ethics committees and in publications. A documentary highlighting the ethics of publication was screened. In the post-lunch session, Dr. Anant Bhan discussed about the importance of understanding the standards of care and post-trial access/benefits in clinical research.

The last day focused on responsible conduct of research (RCR). Dr. Mala Ramanathan spoke about the importance of transparency and accountability; and Dr. Anant Bhan and Dr. Amar Jesani discussed scientific misconduct and the importance of identifying and negating it. The morning session ended with a talk on ethical issues in animal research by Dr. Anant Bhan. The afternoon session comprised the mock ethics committee meetings by the four groups, who were very enthusiastic and serious about the review process. The session was judged by Dr. Anant Bhan and Dr. Mala Ramanathan. Overall, at the end of the fourth day, the delegates expressed their learning experience as a very unique, enjoyable and fruitful one. Feedback was collected from the KMC observer and from the delegates.

After a brief prayer and a report on the activities of the club so far, the meeting began. The topic for the day was Animal Ethics presented by Ms. Arya, 3rd year MBBS student from Yenepoya Medical College. Ms. Arya in her presentation stressed on the equal consideration and respect to be given to any animals. She emphasised on the role of Animal Ethics Committee which should issue certain code lines for the researchers.

The guidelines should be followed before doing any trial on animals. She questioned whether it is ethical to keep pets and the members discussed and deliberated on freedom of pets and the ethical issues thereof. She opined that animals too have an emotional value and suggested all to be humane and ethical towards animals. She also added that loving animals means not just pets but love should be extended to all kind of animals. A good discussion on the topic was held throughout the presentation.
